Feel burned out.¹

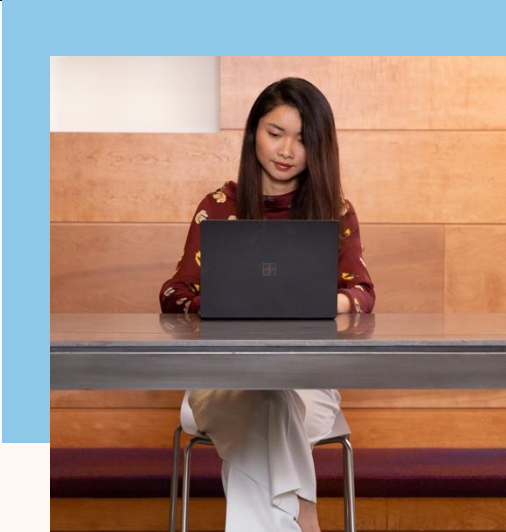

The speed and scale of work is overwhelming people's ability to keep up.

Your customers need to empower their teams to be more productive, work smarter, and operate securely while encouraging transformation for the AI-driven business world.

With Ingram Micro and the Microsoft 365 suite of productivity tools enhanced by web-grounded AI experiences, your customers can maintain robust security while ensuring seamless collaboration and efficiency in your customers' workplace.

Empower your customers with secure, seamless collaboration.

Your customer's organization can achieve real-time, synchronized, and shareable collaboration through your customer's daily-use applications. These tools are elevated when integrated with Microsoft 365 Copilot, which uses generative AI to streamline workflows, automate repetitive tasks, and enable smarter decision-making—all while safeguarding enterprise data.

Peace of mind with built-in security

Equip your customers' business with the tools to thrive in the digital age while maintaining confidence in their security posture. Deliver enterprise-grade access management including single sign-on, multifactor authentication, and password less options like Windows Hello.

With these capabilities your customers can enable employees to access applications with advanced security without disrupting productivity. Plus, deploy data protection measures such as sensitivity labeling and compliance management to help your customers' organization govern data administration and meet regulatory requirements all while preparing their technology stack for AI adoption.
